

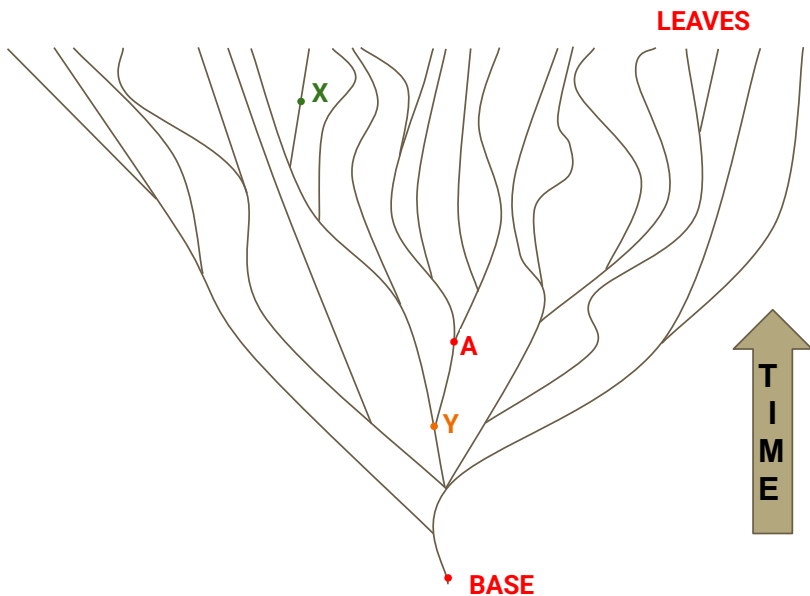

Figure 40 – If a time traveler, departing from instant X, returns to the past and lands at point Y, a new timeline (and a new history) will open up. And they will arrive at point A, different from the timeline they came from.

