

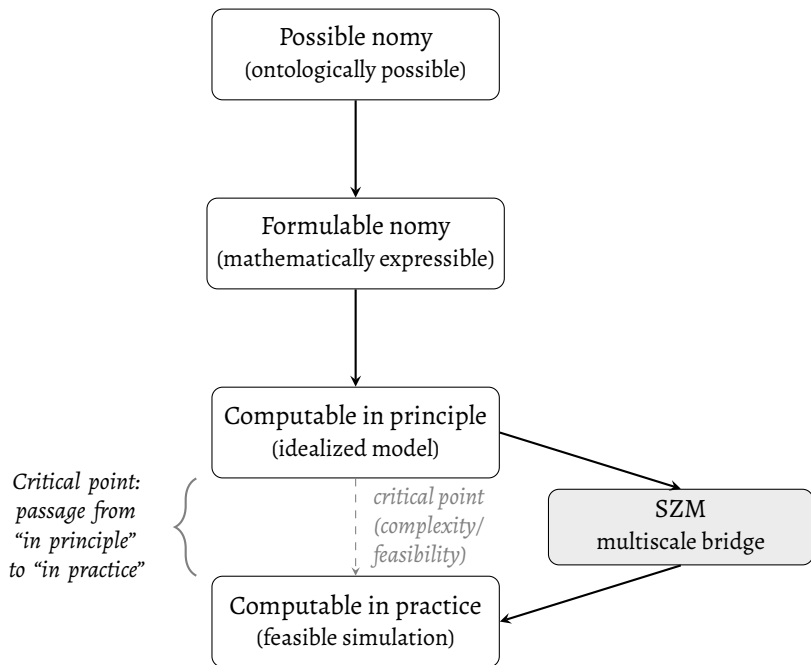

Figure 45 – Conceptual flow among the levels of accessibility of a nomy. The transition between “computable in principle” and “computable in practice” represents the critical point where the main analytical and computational barriers arise. The SZM is indicated as a potential methodological bridge to act in this region.

