

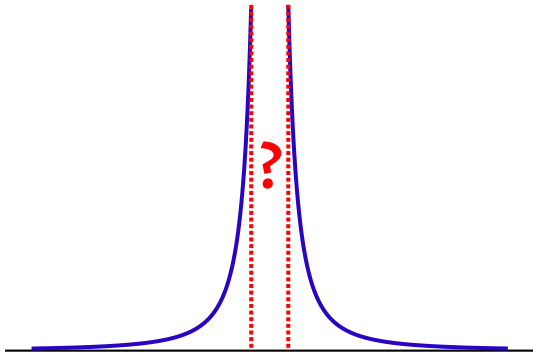

Figure 49 – Representation of the magnitude of the electric field in the vicinity of an electron. The region in blue is known: it is described by Coulomb's Law. What lies at the center, between the dotted red lines in red and marked with “?”, remains unknown.

