

Figure 4 – The width d of the visible segment would tend to zero. But if it reached zero, the Flatlander would be unable to see it. The width of the segment would not be perceived, without the Flatlander grasping this additional third dimension.

